interesting matter is crowded out this —Nothing could have been more quiet and orderly than Monday's detect any of the elements which generally characterize elections.

—We are pained to note the death of Mrs. Barry, nee Miss Fannie Winfield, and step-daughter of Mr. Thos. P. Reed, near New Hope. She was buried Mon-will be found the men to lead the democratic hosts to victory in September, and they will. The ticket is one to inspire hope and to insure success. As Dad says, the boys are now thinning out to a stand and all we have to do is "pop 'em in." Let the "poping proceed."

—There will be a Temperance Mass Meeting on next Sunday night at the Hon. E. B. Henry of Morrilton will be present. A great rally is expected.

—LANDRETH'S CELEBRATED TURNIP SEED for sale by J. W. Wells.
—The most hotly contested battle of last Monday was between Messrs.
Franklin and John Puckett for constable. It became so close and interesting before the count was completed that when the result was announced the victor could not restrain himself one holier.
—A good rain fell throughout this county last Saturday night. It was a timely blessing to crops, assuring as it does better crops than for five years.
This means that the corn, sorghum and smoke houses of Pope county will not be located in St. Louis and Kansas next year, and that the "supply mortgage" will not flourish as formerly.
—Taking into account the threatening aspect of the weather in the afternoon of last Monday and the sprinkling of voters which had never voted in a primary before, coupled with the fact that on several of the officers the interest was so nearly balanced as to neutralized active participation, and last Monday's vote has much of encouragement in it in this township.
—LANDRETH'S TURNIP SEED WILL DO TO RELY UPON. J. W. Wells.
—The vote at this precinct Monday was as follows: For representative, Sibley 130, Eggleston 104; for clerk, Potts 134, Reynolds 105; for sheriff, Quinn 152, Young 89; for judge, Bullock 32, Bayless 166, Pollock 38; for assessor, Hickman 141, Jamison 45; Davis 50; for treasurer, Blackburn 135, Petty 35; for surveyor, Hale 211. For justices of the peace W. A. McKinney and M. R. Shinn were nominated. For constable Frank Woodworth was successful, beating Mr. Puckett, his opponent, on 17 votes.
—The speaking here Saturday night between Messrs. Mallett and Wallace was as largely attended as it would have been if the rain had not interfered.
There was a misunderstanding in regard to the time, which caused disappointment to many. The original intention was to have the debate in the afternoon, but the wheelers saw proper to change the time to night and failed to notify Mr. Wallace of the fact and he stood by the arrangement as first made, hence the misunderstanding. The confusion growing out of it was regretted, but unavoidable.
—LANDRETH'S TURNIP SEED AT J. W. Wells'.
—It is with a deep sense of regret that we record the death of Mrs. H. A.
Hower, which occurred last Friday afternoon at the residence of her parents in Illinois, whither she went last month with the hope of benefit, but that fell destroyer, consumption, had marked her for his own, and she peacefully passed away in the presence of her husband and relatives near and dear to her. Many a friend in Russellville will drop a tear of sympathy over her untimely death, and our social, religious and temperance circles will lose a zealous member whose place will be hard to fill. We deplore her death and extend to the bereaved husband and little daughter and sorrowing relatives our heartfelt sympathy.

Notice.
The Russellville Cornet Band will give a Negro Minstrel Concert on next Friday night, the 30th, at Luker & Davis' Hall. The public is especially invited to lend its patronage.

The Mallett-Wallace Tilt.
The discussion between Messrs.
Mallett and Wallace took place at Luker & Davis' hall last Saturday night under very unfavorable circumstances. The rainfall was heavy and beat upon the house with such vehement force that it was with the greatest difficulty the speakers labored to be heard. Notwithstanding the unfavorable evening the hall was filled with eager listeners. According to arrangements between the speakers Mr. Mallett opened with an hour and a quarter speech, followed by Mr. Wallace the same length of time, and ten minutes rejoinder by Mr. Mallett. The speaking began at 8:30. Below we give the salient points of their speeches:
Mr. Mallett said that he had always voted for democrats, but had not been in sympathy with the policy of the party since 1868, and of late years his vote had been cast under protest. That the democratic party had gone over to the republican party. That there was no difference between the two parties and he defied his opponent or anybody else to show that they differed in anything. The speaker then spoke of the bank oligarchy, as he styled it, at considerable length and in such stammering manner that he led the audience to believe that he did not understand the National Funding system. That both parties alike patted this system on the back, nursed it and voted for it. That he was no farmer, but in sympathy with the farmer. That for eight years he had been telling the people of the corruption of parties and the trouble they were bringing on this country.
That he was afraid of parties, they had been the curse and ruin of this country. That year after year taxes increased, times grew closer and the people were oppressed by monopolies fostered by parties.
That a man could be a democrat and believe anything, that it is a kind of india rubber garb and would cover anything. The democratic party is very solicitous to keep the wheel out of politics and appealed to party fealty to suppress it. That both democrat and republican parties were composed of aristocrats and monocrats and had no interest with the people and that the only hope of the country was such organizations as the Wheel composed of farmers.
That the two parties had committed fornication and the result was a mugwump administration. That the people were brought face to face with monopolies and they must determine whether they would be true to their own interest or deliver themselves to monocrats and aristocrats.
That he had no war to make on the business men, that they were a necessity. He spoke of the inconsistency of the democratic state platform and charged that the democracy of Arkansas had failed to fulfill its pledges to the people. That the party was committed to the Churchill fraud, that Garland approved his bond with a full knowledge that names had been erased. That the Gazette for campaign purpose was circulating a falsehood to the effect that since the democratic party had come into power they had paid $14, 700,000 of the public debt, when in fact $13,000,000 of that sum had been repudiated by the people.
Mr. Wallace in response said: That he could not concur in the proposition of his opponent "that political parties were the curse of the country. That he believed well defined political parties with clean outlets to the perpetuation of free institutions and constitutional liberty. The party in power is restrained by the opposition party and in the struggle for supremacy between the parties moderation and justice are produced, and honest and economic government maintained.
That he had seen men before too good to belong to either party, but his observation had been that they were men who had been disappointed in politics, and were ready to sacrifice principle for office. During republican rule in this state there was no protection for life, liberty or property. That murder was rife in the land. The people for their own personal protection had to take up arms against those in authority over them. He remembered the dark and bloody days of 1872-4. That he saw men here officiating with the republicans now, who were in arms against them then, and wanted to know if that was the kind of company for democrats to keep. They had proved themselves to be true men in the hour of danger and that they are true men now, but he feared duped by a horde of disinterested office seekers. He then invited them all to return to the democratic fold.
That they would not be ostracized but welcomed. That there is no medium ground, a man is either a democrat or a republican. That the democratic party had accepted all the results of the war in good faith, and that chattel slavery in the colored man was forever abolished.
That the interest of the races were mutual. That the colored man had become an important factor in this country. That he had equal political rights with the white man. That the Wheel discriminates against the colored man and precludes him from their order. That the democratic party rather than discriminate against you, prefer to advance your morals and civilization, then why not link your political fortunes with your friends.
Mr. Wallace said his opponent had misrepresented the Gazette. That it had not stated that the democratic party in this state since its ascendancy in 1874 had paid $14,700,000 of the state debt, but it had stated that the party had reduced the debt that much, and that it stated the truth. It was all the same with the people. The democratic party had relieved the people of $13,000, 000 of fraudulent debt fastened upon them by bribed legislation under republican rule. Mr. Wallace then read from statistics and official reports showing that the cost of state government under republican rule from 1868 to 1874 was $2,632,232, that for a like period of time from 1880 to 1888 under democratic rule had cost but $1,340,000. That taxes were decreased from 12 1/2 mills to 4 mills, and denied the assertion of his opponent that taxes were daily increasing. That taxes were more than two-thirds less under democratic than republican rule. That he was surprised that any intelligent man should assert that there was no difference between the parties. That the difference was wide and deep.

(1) The democratic party believed in the indestructibility of the States and indivisibility of the Union, while the republican party believed in centralizing all power in the federal government, which he characterized as the demon of our free institutions. (2) That the democratic policy was for tariff for revenue only, that the republican policy was for tariff for protection, which he characterized as a system calculated to foster monopolies, that menaced and threatened the government. (3) The policy of the democratic party had always been for the unlimited coinage of gold and silver, while the republican party had sought to demonetize silver and make gold the only circulating medium of exchange. Mr. Wallace here entered into a discussion of the National Funding system and showed that he possessed a thorough and comprehensive knowledge of the same, and showed conclusively that the republican party was responsible for fastening the system upon the country.
That the democratic party fought it to a man, and submitted the issues to the country in 1868 and upon that question the voice of the people was overwhelmingly against us. That that question now belongs to the dead issues of the past and that good faith required that the government should keep its pledges with its creditors. He then spoke of the acquisitions of the democratic party.
That from 1800 to 1860 this government had increased its territory over 2,000,000 square miles. This vast domain had been squandered by the republican party. That they had given 300,000,000 acres to railroads which covered an area of 300,000 square miles which covered an area larger than the states of Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, New York,
New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Indiana, Kentucky and Illinois. Suppose you would blot these great states out of this Union, and what disaster would follow. Here Mr. Wallace was notified that his time had expired and he stopped in the heart of his speech.
Mr. Mallett in his rejoinder attempted not to answer the argument of Mr. Wallace, he denied nothing that he had said but tried to parry his blows with ridicule and smutty anecdotes.

CORRESPONDENCE.
Dover, July 26.—Messrs. Eggleston and Sibley, candidates for the legislature, were down from Dover on Saturday night last, by invitation, to address the Democratic club. There was too much enthusiasm over the appearance of the speakers to allow the pleasure of hearing them speak.
Mrs. Laparri, nee Miss Maggie Tucker, sister of Mrs. W. H. Poynter, is visiting Mrs. Poynter. I will understand that some man offered to bet $1,000 one day last week that I wrote the "A. J. W." article. I will not bet that much, but I will bet him or any other man who charges me with writing that article, $1,000 against nothing that he is a Big Liar, and that the truth is not in him. Now, if any man persists in doing me this injustice, he's a Big Liar, and I am game to bet him so.
There will be a picnic at Eureka spring, one mile south-west of Dover on Saturday July 31st. Everybody invited. Your Aunt Waz will boost the American Eagle and paw up the earth in general. Miss May Mc-Cune of Scottsville who has been visiting the Misses Rollow of this place, returned home on Sunday.
Misses Jonnie Rollow and Mollie Higgins accompanied her. I wish them a pleasant visit and hope that they will have lots of fun. W. B.
Young and lady of Scottsville were here Saturday and Sunday. And George Howell actually married?
Well I wish him the most unalloyed joy and happiness in married life, and congratulate him in securing the prize he has won. But am I always to be left alone? Will this thing never let up? I have one consolation though, Bob Williamson is still with me. He and myself will organize a society at my office in the town of Dover on Saturday July 31st, the object being the prevention of cruelty to bachelors. Dr. and Tom Kinney will be present, aiding and abetting by their counsel. Miss Ella Bonds, a charming blonde of Russellville, who has been visiting here for several days returned home on Tuesday last. I hope she enjoyed her visit. Capt. Rollow and Miss Neppie went to Russellville and returned on Wednesday last. "Pap" Tally was in town one day last week. He has more genuine fun in him than any other man in the county. Every body knows "Pap". Mrs. Sallie Bradley has gone to London to live with her daughter, Mrs. Nora Frye. They are both of them distant relatives of mine. John Barnard and A. J.
White took in Morrilton last week.
I hope that the town did not take them in, though I have no evidence of the fact. This people is the Lord's people. He sent us an abundant rain on Saturday night, and the indications are that we will need no more soon. No man now has any excuse for not voting the Democratic ticket. I should be afraid that the lightning would strike me if I voted against that party, after the Lord's goodness. A fair fight and an open field is all that any party or man can ask in any sort of contest, and every liberal man will accord this to his opponent. Let this motto characterize the coming contest in Pope county, for in the end the right will triumph, and the people will be satisfied with the result. I am proud of the ticket put out by the Democrats of Franklin county.
I am personally well acquainted with almost every man on the ticket, and taken as a whole it cannot be beaten in the state. With Dick Hooper for representative, Riley Wallace for clerk, and Billie Huggins for sheriff, the democrats will win. When I read the news I am going out and holler just a few. A new band has been organized here called "Ragged Bill." They meet alternately with the Brass Band. During the past ten days the Brass Band of this place has made more progress than I ever knew a band to make in so short a time. Prof. Settle is a fine cornetist, and under his leadership we will soon have one of the best bands in the state.

In the matter of the redemption of old county warrants.
Now on this day it being made to appear to the court that there are outstanding and unredeemed a portion of the old or interest bearing warrants, and it further being shown to the court that there is in the Treasury of Pope county money not appropriated to other purposes, it is therefore by the court ordered that the treasurer of Pope county pay out to the holders of such county warrants in redemption thereof any money or funds in said treasury not otherwise appropriated to the amount of the principal and interest of such warrants as the same shall be presented for redemption.
C. S. Bell, et al, and L. D. Ford, et al, petition to change county seat.
To Pope County Court.
Now on this day come said petitioners and present to the court here two several petitions, one signed by C. S.
Bell and fifteen hundred others, and the other signed by L. D. Ford and twenty-one hundred others, all legal voters of Pope county, the said number of signers to each of said petitions, being more than one third of the number of legal voters of Pope county as appears to the court, from the return of the number of persons liable to pay a poll tax, on the assessor's books of said county, the object and prayer of said petitioners being that this court order an election to be held in the several voting precincts of said county, in which election the following questions be submitted to the people, to-wit: First. Shall the county seat be removed or changed?

Second. Shall the county seat be removed from Dover to Russellville?
Third. Shall the county seat be removed from Dover to Atkins?
And it appearing to the court that in said petitions is embodied a description of the respective proposed locations of the county seat, both in Russellville and Atkins, and that the designation of the respective locations embraces a complete and intelligible description of the said proposed locations, together with an abstract of title to them respectively and the terms and conditions upon which the same will be donated to the county, and the court being fully satisfied that a good and valid title can and will be made to the proposed location to which the county seat may be removed, and the court being well and sufficiently advised in the premises, it is ordered by the court that an election be held in the several voting precincts of Pope county, and that the propositions above as contained in said petitions be submitted to the qualified voters in said election, and that said election be held on the 6th day of September, 1886, the same being the day for the general election for state and county officers.
That said election be held at the same places, and by the judges appointed or selected for holding the same, as above indicated in the respective townships. It is further ordered by the court that public notice be given of said proposed change or removal by publication in the Russellville Democrat, a newspaper published at Russellville, Pope county, Arkansas, and in the Pope County Reflector, a newspaper published at Atkins, Pope county, Arkansas, and that the sheriff post up in hand bill form printed copies of this order, in not less than three of the most public places in each township, not less than thirty days before said election.
Order appointing commissioners to whom bond shall be given, etc.
Now on this day, the court having ordered an election submitting to the qualified voters of Pope county, the question of removal of the county seat of Pope county, from Dover, its present location, to either Russellville or Atkins, and the said petitions, each containing a proposal to build a court house at the said towns of Russellville and Atkins respectively, in case the county seat shall be removed to either of said places, and the people of Russellville and Atkins each proposing to execute a good and sufficient bond for the use of Pope county, payable to such commissioners as may by this court be appointed, to erect without cost to the county a suitable and convenient building, suitable and sufficient for all purposes and to donate the same to the county. Now therefore, R. O. Morton, W. M. Bell and Joseph Howard, are hereby appointed by the court, commissioners to whom said bonds shall be made payable for the use of Pope county, and it is further ordered that said bonds be filed with the clerk of this court. Ordered that court adjourn until Monday, August 3d, 1886.

Tidings from "Mac."
Correspondence of the Democrat.
OLD POINT COMFORT, Va., July 18.
—After a run of 1170 miles by rail I reached Norfolk, Va., on the afternoon of the second day. Col. T.
Hartman, Supt. M. & L. R. road boarded the train at Forrest City, and we had a pleasant chat to Memphis. On changing cars at the latter place the portly form of an old acquaintance, Capt. Dave Ramsey, loomed up. He has pulled the bell cord over the M. & C. R. R., for 36 years. On nearing Chattanooga the towering heights of Lookout mountain arose in solemn grandeur upon our right. Up its steep and rugged sides there was fought one of the most remarkable battles of the civil war, 23 years ago. The northern troops, scaled its heights and striking the confederate line at its weakest point, drove them from their position, which was one of the most daring feats of the war.
In passing Greenville, Tenn., on a hill overlooking the town, can be seen a monument on its crest that marks the spot where lies the remains of Andrew Johnson. The history of this remarkable man should be read by every poor boy in the land, to learn what energy and pluck may accomplish. On arriving at Appomattox I was reminded that it was here that the Confederacy received its mortal blow, when Gen.
Lee gave up his sword to Gen. Grant.
The location of this memorable event is about two miles from the station.
Norfolk, Va., is a place of considerable commercial importance. It boasts of one of the best harbors in the United States, and during the past season 560,000 bales of cotton were handled at its wharves. Among the curiosities pointed out to strangers is St. Paul's Episcopal church, which carries a cannon ball that was embedded in its side by a shot fired by the British in 1812.
Leaving Norfolk on the steamer Roanoke, of the old Dominion Line, I arrived here after a pleasant voyage of 24 hours, and for the first time was out of sight of the United States.
It was so cool out at sea that overcoats and wraps were in demand.
In steaming down the river from Norfolk, we passed through the waters where 24 years ago the Confederate monitor Merrimack, sank two of the largest United States men of war, and drove off the entire fleet, and it was here she subsequently encountered the Federal Iron monitor. As we steamed past Old Point and Fortress Monroe, the lights gleam like stars at in a midnight sky.
Our course the next day lay close along the Jersey shore, and Atlantic City, Asbury Park, Ocean View and Long Branch were all plainly in sight. One does not have to enter New York to see the "elephant," if the trip is made by sea, for he is visible to the naked eye when ten miles out at sea. He stands on Omey Island, about six stories high facing the sea. A fine view of New York harbor is obtained by those who enter by steamer. It is here the flags of every nation may be seen. Forts Richmond and Hamilton loom up as we approach to guard the entrance to the harbor, and a little further on Bartholdi's Statue of Liberty towers high above Bed-loe's Island, then comes Governor's Island, where the gallant and lamented Hancock breathed his last, at the same time the great Brooklyn bridge that rises 170 feet above the waters, and is the finest piece of engineering in the United States, comes plainly in sight. New York City has several hundred thousand more inhabitants than are in the entire state of Arkansas, and one can scarcely get over it with only a few days leisure. But the public buildings, Wall Street and Central Park were all given a hurried inspection.

In the latter stands the Obelisk presented to the government by the Khedive of Egypt. It was brought 6000 miles across the sea, and at an expense of $100,000 was placed in the park. When the old world was young, centuries ago, it is supposed to have stood upon the banks of the Nile, but the change of climate has caused it to crumble. On the steps of the Treasury department in Wall street is a stone that marks the spot where George Washington first took the oath as President of the United States. Hearing an uproar in the Cotton Exchange I entered to find the members carrying on like they were crazy. It was a perfect pandemonium, and in selling futures it was impossible for an outsider to tell the Bulls from the Bears. A visit to New York is not complete without a trip up the Hudson, as far as West Point, at least, where the embryo officers of the U. S. Army are now being put through a thorough course of drilling. The scenery along the river is splendid, and some of the residences are veritable palaces. Coney Island, Brighton and Manhattan Beach, are New York's popular summer resorts, where thousands of people are landed every hour by rail and boat, which are running all day long. These places are a blessing to the poorer people who are not able to leave the city during the heated term.

sea matrimonial in the presence of a select company of relatives and intimate friends who witnessed the beautiful ceremony and extended most sincere wishes for their future happiness and success. After which the newly married couple boarded the morning train for a bridal tour to the famous mountain summer resorts of East Tennessee.
The Democrat tenders the happy couple its hearty congratulations, and hopes that their course through life may be brightened and cheered by Heaven's choicest blessings.
